

BIOARCHAEOLOGY SEMINAR SERIES

Michaelmas term 2019

Mondays 12:00—13:00, Lecture Theatre, 1 South Parks Road

School of Archaeology, University of Oxford

Week 1— 14 Oct.

Diet lab meeting

Week 2—21 Oct.

Aaron Gasparik (University College London)

“Shouldering the load: a diachronic study of rotator cuff disease in British skeletal assemblages”

Week 3—28 Oct.

TBC

Week 4—4 Nov.

Dr Amy Styring (University of Oxford)

“People’s changing relationship with Nature: an archaeological science perspective”

Week 5—11 Nov.

Dr Andrea Czermak (University of Oxford)

“Fluorescence microscopy of teeth – Collagen preservation screening and Immunofluorescence labelling of stress markers”

Week 6—18 Nov.

Dr Tom Booth (Francis Crick Institute)

“Ancient genomes indicate population replacement in Early Neolithic Britain”

Week 7—25 Nov.

Ella Brown (University of Cambridge)

“Trabecular bone variation in the mandibular condyle and its association with diet”

Week 8— 2 Dec.

Dr David Errickson (Cranfield University)

“Dig(-ital) Deeper: Human Remains and 3D Imaging”

For more information or to subscribe to the mailing list please contact Emese Végh
(emese.vegh@arch.ox.ac.uk)